

Looking After Your Future: Why Lasting Powers of Attorney Make Sense at Any Age

Most people like to feel organised and prepared, whether that is planning a career, buying a home or thinking about the future. Lasting Powers of Attorney (LPAs) are another practical step that many people simply do not realise are relevant until much later. In fact, LPAs are about everyday peace of mind, ensuring that if the unexpected ever happens, the people you trust can step in smoothly and support you exactly as you would want.

Many assume LPAs are only needed later in life, but illness or accidents can affect anyone at any age. Without an LPA properly in place, even close family members may be unable to make important decisions on your behalf when you need them most.

Loved ones may face costly delays, court applications and unnecessary stress at exactly the wrong time. Your finances, property, or even everyday decisions about care and medical treatment can become far more complicated than they need to be.

At Campion Solicitors, we believe planning ahead is a sensible step at any stage of adulthood. LPAs are not about losing control. They are about staying in control, by choosing who you trust and making your wishes clear in advance.

We make the process straightforward, quick and stress free. Our experienced team will:

- Explain your options clearly, without jargon
- Ensure your documents are completed correctly
- Guide you through common pitfalls and mistakes
- Handle the full registration process for you

We are proud to offer transparent pricing, and our newly launched website now lists all our legal fees upfront, making it easier to plan and giving you total clarity from the start.

If you have been putting off making LPAs, now is the perfect time to act, for peace of mind today and protection for tomorrow.
